

POTENTIAL IMPACTS OF THE OIL & GAS PROJECTS

Depending on the type of infrastructure and the local population density, the project may have the following impacts:

1. NO PHYSICAL DISPLACEMENT

Where the footprint of project is small and does not impact any residential structures, physical displacement will most likely be avoided, and impacts on livelihood will be assessed and compensated.

2. RESETTLEMENT WITHIN THE COMMUNITY

Where the footprint of a project component is small but cannot avoid residential structures, the project will propose to the affected households to be resettled within the same community.

3. LARGE SCALE RESETTLEMENT

Where the footprint of a project component is large, impacting several structures and households, and where resettlement within the community is not possible, the project may consider resettling the affected households in another location nearby.
